

Baseball

The month of October always brings us colder days, candy, but also ... the World Series of Baseball.

Are you wondering why Baseball? For the first time since 1999, the Atlanta Braves are in the final against the Houston Astros. The last time that happened, our Expos were still at the Olympic Stadium.

The Atlanta Braves has been a stock that we've had in our portfolio from the very beginning (Liberty Media Braves). We are therefore shareholders of a Baseball team, and their prowess helps the stock's market performance!

By the way, we also own shares of the New York Rangers and Knicks through the shares of Madison Square Garden Sports.

Finally, a quick word on the markets: October was positive for our Caisse Privée and we are very optimistic for the next two months, as we strongly believe that the markets will continue in November and December as they did in October.

Go Braves Go!

Phil
